LARGELY ATTENDED.

Funeral of the late J. M. Hawley at Canaan Church.

The funeral of the late J. M. Hawley of Forman's Springs, which took place Saturday morning at Canaan Church, was one of the largest ever occurring in Lewis county.

Mr. Hawley was a prominent merchant, an active member of the Methodist Church, a Knight of Pythias and a Knight Templar, and these associations naturally made him widely known.

The religious services were conducted by the Rev. Stratton, and the interment was at Mt. Olivet, a beautiful rural cemetery, under the auspices of Maysville Commandery of Knights Templars, those present being Sir Knights E. A. Robinson, R. L. Browning, J. D. Byr, L. C. Blatterman, James H. Salles, John W. Alexander, R. P. Jenkins, H. C. Sharp, H. D. Watson, A. H. Thompson, George W. Rogers, G. B. Wall, A. E. Cole, H. L. Watson, J. Lud Browning, Clarence Mathews, W. N. Howe, E. T. Hancock, M. C. Russell, D. C. Franklin.

A CLOSE CALL.

Several Hundred People Make a Narrow Escape From Death.

The Boston, lately running in the Cincinnati and Memphis trade, formerly doing the Cincinnati and Huntington business for the White Collar Line, left Cincinnati yesterday morning at 8 o'clock for this city with an excursion of about 1,500 people.

When the steamer reached a point in the first bend below this city the crowd began to pick places on the right side in order that they might get a view of Maysville, and three-fourths of the people on the boat managed to push into the small space.

This caused the boat to careen, and the engines being at work under a full head of steam held the stern down in the water, thus throwing all the weight and strain on the right hogchain, which gave way, letting the bow of the steamer down.

It was with difficulty she was landed at the wharf, and after getting the crowd ashore the work of repair began, and at 7.40 the boat left for her return. The people on board did not seem to realize the danger they were in, for if they had there would have been common enough to have caused the boat to break in two, in which event there would not have been three out of ten saved.

The 34x165 feet lot on Second just East of Market, belonging to the estate of the late Colonel Isaac Nelson, was sold Saturday by Master Commissioner James N. Kehoe. Mr. George S. Rosser bid it in at $3,000 for Mrs. Sam McDonald, one of the heirs.

Colonel Ben T. Cox, of the committee to secure attractions for Maysville's Bargain Day Excursion, is in correspondence with several baseball managers, and is confident he will secure a good team for that occasion.

HENRY WORTHINGTON'S ESTATE.

It Has Been Settled and Is Withdrawn From Court.

The litigation over the large estate of the late Henry Worthington of Covington has been settled.

The heirs have effected a compromise, and the big case comes out of court.

The Commonwealth sets the stipulations of the agreement as follows: The will is to stand and all debts to be paid.

A mortgage for $70,000 due Hack Worthington is to be given him on Fern Bank and property at Middletown, Ohio, with right of redemption any time within five years.

The sum of $10,000 is to be paid out of the estate to Kearns Worthington's trustee, and $2,500 set apart to support Capt. James Whipp.

Mrs. Stuart purchases from Hack Worthington, for $50,000, his interest under the will except the 7,000 acres of land in Tennessee.

She also purchases Sam M. Worthington's interest under the will.

The estate of Mrs. Maria Worthington, wife, and of Mattie, daughter (both deceased) of Henry Worthington, is to go in as part of testator's estate.

After payment of the debts and performing these obligations the estate is to be divided in two equal parts, Robert Hamilton to take one half. Out of the other half $5,000 is to be paid Miss Lettie Warr, and the part due H. W. Stuart, son of Mrs. Lillie Stuart, is to be set apart for him, after which the balance of such half to be paid to Lillie Stuart.

All parties to the compromise to pay their own attorney's fees; $20,000 to be paid the Hamilton brothers as executors.

A. Stuart is to resign as administrator in Ohio, and the trust so far as the Stuarts are concerned is to terminate.

The Hamiltons are to wind up the estate.

According to the Curator's accounts the assets amount to $734,998 10 and the liabilities $917,099 53, leaving a net surplus of $407,897 57.

Under the agreement it is settled that Lillie Stuart shall receive as part of her share part of the stock in the Farmers' and Shippers' Tobacco Warehouse Company, also the bonds and stock of the Suburban Electric Company, and she on her part has consented with Hack Worthington and agreed to convey same to him as part price for his interests under the will.

Saturday Master Lee Browning, son of Mr. Ed. P. Browning, was descending the hill near Comer's on the Fleming bike when his "bike" took on too much speed—"got away from him," as it were. Before it could be stopped it steered Lee into a fence, and the contact caused an ugly gash in his forehead. Fortunately it was only "skin deep," and after a few stitches and plasters and days he will be all right again.

FOR THE FANS.

All Signs Point to a Baseball Team—Some Readable Notes.

That Maysville is to have a first-class baseball team is now almost an assured fact.

The entertainment at the Opera house Wednesday evening is for this cause, and should be patronized to such an extent that the "Standing Room Only" sign will have to be displayed.

There isn't a single sport that the people take to like baseball, and THE LEDGER hopes there will be a generous response to the call.

BASEBALL TALK.

Players will report Monday, the 25th. Van Winkle and Lucas have been signed.

The season opens in Maysville Friday the 26th and then the team goes to Knoxville for games the 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th of June.

Sam Lever, an old Maysville favorite, pitched two games Saturday for the New Richmond team, winning both. In the first game he struck out fourteen men.

Any young lady selling ten tickets to the entertainment will be presented with a complimentary to the opening game; and the one selling twenty five a ticket for one month. Apply at Nelson's for tickets.

The management is experiencing a deal of trouble in raising the monthly subscription. Unless it reaches the $10 mark by Thursday, the 21st, the present management will retire. See Mr. Walter Watson immediately.

Kid Keenan, the swift little Covington pitcher, well known here, lost his first game of the season to the Saginaw the other day. Keenan is pitching for the Toledo, and if he had continued his winning streak for another week he could have had the leading hotel for the asking.

The Breckinridge-Pollard scandal has affected the Sayre Institute of Lexington.

Where Madeline Pollard was a student and Colonel Breckinridge a Director, Major McClellan, a noted Confederate of Stewart's staff, sympathized with Breckinridge, and Rev. Bartlett, another Director, preached favoring Breckinridge. The attendance, usually consisting of 100 from Southern states, has shrunk to 11. A change in management is to be made.

Building Association Receipts. The receipts of the several Building Associations of this city Saturday night were as follows:

LEXINGTON ROTTENNESS.

Alderman Campbell Caught Accepting a Bribe of $800.

At Lexington—the political Sodom and Gomorrah of Kentucky—Alderman S. T. Campbell tendered his resignation to Mayor Simrall.

The Mayor wrote his acceptance, but will probably recall it, and Campbell will most likely be impeached for accepting a bribe.

Campbell was Chairman of the Joint Light Committee of the General Council.

For several months the Council has been trying to obtain bids for lighting the city with electricity.

The principal bidder was the Central Electric Light Company of Lexington.

In the employ of this company is a young man, Charles Staples, whose father is a member of the City Council.

Several months ago U. G. Jarrard, a graduate of the Mechanical Department of the Kentucky State College, who had formerly been in the employ of the Central Electric Company, approached young Staples and asked him if he would accept a job with the new company which was going to come here and bid on lighting the city.

Staples told his father, and the latter told President Charles H. Stoll of the Central Electric Company. Stoll told him that if he would consent he would let the young man pretend to be in with Jarrard's scheme and find out what he was trying to do.

Not long after that Jarrard wanted young Staples to get a duplicate key to President Stoll's desk in order to get certain papers therefrom. This was communicated to Stoll, and he went to New York City, and through a detective opened a correspondence with Alderman Campbell, as Jarrard had let out enough to Staples to warrant him in doing so.

Campbell did not suspect that the letters coming from the "New York Electrical Supply Company" were written by his former employer, Charles H. Stoll. The Alderman took the bait, and when the supposed New York Company offered him $2,000 a year from now until the supposed new plant was built, and $4,000 the next year, he accepted, promising to get through both Boards of the Council an ordinance accepting the company's bid.

He even specified the members by name who would vote for the measure. A few days ago he wrote to the supposed New York Company, asking that it send him $300. The money was sent by express, and Campbell sent a receipt to the New York Company, which, of course, was duly received by President Stoll. He also has the receipt of the Adams Express Company at the New York end and the receipt given the company by Mr. Campbell at Lexington.

About 11 o'clock one day Mr. Campbell, who is Superintendent of the Lexington Pumping Company and President of a Building Association, received a telephone message asking him to come to Mr. Stoll's office at once. Without suspecting he went. There were present Mr. Stoll and several Directors of the Company. They confronted Campbell with the correspondence and all the documentary evidence of his guilt. He saw he had been caught dead to rights, and admitted what he had done. He wrote his resignation at once, complained of having an attack of heart failure and went home.

He belongs to many secret orders, and was a prominent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor last summer.

Kentucky's Own Son for President.

BRADLEY'S CURRENCY PLATFORM.

"I am opposed to the free and unlimited output of silver, believing it would destroy all National property. The gold dollar is the best dollar, and I am in favor of making every other dollar equivalent to it in value. I am the friend of silver, and believe it can be best protected by holding it in each hand as will insure its purity with gold as a circulating medium."—W. O. BRADLEY.

Saturday $10,000 more of Uncle Sam's pretty gold dollars crossed the sea, to pay for the goods that England makes. Meantime, thousands of American workmen are idle and their families want bread and clothes.

It continues to grow; and it will continue to grow until the people kick the present incompetent maladministration out of power and restore the essential features of the McKinley Bill. The shortage in Uncle Sam's Treasury for the first fifteen days is $4,000,000, for the fiscal year $28,153,701.90 and for the Cleveland Administration $140,702,185.66.

The spring trade is getting ripe. Now's the time to plant advertisements in this Ledger.

Mr. D. P. Davis, a prominent lawyer and merchant of Goshen, Va., has this to say on the subject of rheumatism: "I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, as I know from personal experience that it will do all that is claimed for it. A year ago this spring my brother was laid up in bed with inflammatory rheumatism and suffered intensely. The first application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm eased the pain and the use of one bottle completely cured him. For sale by J. James Wood, Druggist."

Among this week's graduates from the Cincinnati Law School is Augustus Harmon Holderness of Vanceburg.
Shade Brunnen and Mary Carter eloped from Boyd county to Portsmouth to marry. The girl was only 19, and the necessary license was refused. Her father arrived as the disappointed couple was leaving the Courthouse, and after quietly informing Shade that he would bore a hole in him if he ever appeared in their neighborhood again, took charge of his daughter.

ASSASSINATIONS.
Fire Into a Crowd Near Vanceburg, Ky.
VANCEBURG, Ky., May 18.—Saturday night as Fleming Jones, Melvin Jones, and John Jones, and 10 boys were at home, about two miles south of here, some one called out, "Who was that yelling down there by the residence of Isaac Ballard?" Before they could answer two shotguns and a revolver were emptied into the crowd. Fleming Jones lost an eye, and his face, back, and arms are filled with shot. He will probably die. Melvin Jones was shot in the face and breast and Boyd was painfully wounded. The wounded men think they recognized the voice of the man who hailed them as Isaac Ballard. Ballard had trouble with the Jones boys several years ago. No arrests.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 18.—Gov. Bradley has asked the judges of the court of appeals to pass upon the constitutionality of the convict parole law. The law was in force several years prior to the administration of Gov. Brown, since which its operation has been suspended. Gov. Brown believed it to be an infringement on the pardoning power. The legislature acquiesced in Gov. Brown's position, but Gov. Bradley desires the matter to be judicially passed upon.

FORECAST.

Of Business to Be Transacted in Congress the Present Week.

No Regular Programme in the House of Representatives Arranged.

Committee on Immigration's Bill to Be Brought Up—Committee on Labor Will Receive a Day—Committee on Territories Will Be Allowed a Day.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The programme of business in the house of representatives depends largely upon the developments from day to day so that a forecast for the week, especially of the order in which measures shall be considered, cannot be given. Monday, under the rules, will be suspension day, and Mr. Dalzell (Ind., Rep.) will ask for the committee on ways and means, the passage of the bill which is known as the "package bill." This provides that packages of imported merchandise, weighing less than 5000 pounds and valued at less than $500 may be transported by rail over the Canadian railroads to destination.

After the house has disposed of motions to pass bills by suspension of the rules it will probably be given to the committee on immigration for the consideration of bills reported by it. This bill (as amended in the senate) will be the last session of congress, and which it is understood the labor organizations have approved. The Phillips bill appropriating $500,000 to enable a commission to make an exhaustive investigation into the relations between labor and capital.

Another day will be allotted to the committee on territories, which wants the house to consider the New Mexico and bill for the Philippine commonwealth and the bill to protect the salmon fisheries in Alaska.

Should there remain any time at the disposal of the committee on rules, it will be devoted to the consideration of the contested cases on the calendar.

The appropriation committee intend to keep the senate hard at work on appropriation bills during all of that week.

District of Columbia bill is now the unfinished business and it is believed that this will consume the better part of the week.

ROW AT A FESTIVAL.
Two Negroes Have Their Throats Cut and Others Are Badly Wounded.

In the Baptist church here Friday night two Negroes had their throats cut with razors, a Negro woman had her arm cut, and several others suffered serious injuries. A festival was being held at the church, and there were many Negroes present. A crowd of white people row arose between some of the Negroes, and in an instant a dozen of them were engaged in the fracas in the middle of the church.

While midnight a party of young white people returning from a revival ball at St. Louis, on the way to a Negro whose throat was cut from ear to ear. It is supposed to be Will Thompson. Further along the road the body of Perroll Miller was encountered, a negro, suffering from a gash that almost cut her arm off. The floor of the church looked as though the edifice had been used for a slaughter house. It was learned that the affair arose over a woman, and that the half dozen persons were injured besides those mentioned.

Much Damage Wrought by a Storm in Illinois Interior Towns.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Dispatches received by Sunday night from interior points in Illinois report much damage done by a heavy wind and rain storm Saturday night. At Galeburg the telephone and telegraph service was paralyzed.

At Peoria trees were blown down and great damage done to buildings under the influence of the storm. The Burlington railway ran into a corn crib which had been blown across the track at St. Joseph, and was derailed. The engineer was badly hurt.

At Peoria lightning wrecked the New Street St. Paul's church, uprooted trees, blew down chimneys and unroofed houses. The country contiguous to Toulon was storm swept, and many farm houses were wrecked.

Under a Tree.
MEXICO, Ind., May 18.—William Collins, an iron worker, of Alexandria, Ky., who was here to get work, decided to return to Alexandria, beating his way. He was ground to pieces.

TURN OF A CARD

True Story of the Greatest Faro Game Ever Played.

FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS!

That Was the Amount Staked on the Turn of a Single Card.

GRANNAN THE PLUNGER.

There has been much talk and speculation about the famous game of faro played by Riley Grannan, the plunger, and Gambler Al Smith, in New York. The true story of the game has never been told, and many efforts have been made to obtain it from Pat Sheely, the king of the game, the only person present besides the principals. Mr. Sheely now, in his own words, tells the story in his own words:

"I have been asked," says Mr. Sheely, "to tell the story of the greatest faro game that was ever played, so far as I know. All sorts of statements have been told to the effect that in that game I conspired with another man to fleece a friend."

"I want it understood that this article is not written to vindicate myself. Those who know Pat Sheely do not need to be lied to. Those who don't know him are no concern of mine. There are a lot of door-mat stealers in the Tenderloin district who believe badly of me anyway, because they are envious, and I wouldn't be any use for me to try to square myself with them."

"The story of that great faro game is mighty interesting reading, and I have told it for that reason. I don't care a bit how you may think I show up myself."

FRIENDSHIP AMONG GAMBLERS.

"I'm a gambler, and I'm not any too proud of that fact, but any man who says Al and Al Smith put up a game to rob Riley Grannan comes pretty near being a horseflesh and a liar."

"Why I wouldn't have to win him money if I wanted it, all I'd have to do would be to ask him for it and get it. What's the use of playing with a man when you're on those terms with him? With one exception—once at Saratoga, when I was dead broke and Grannan told me to go and play against the bank—I never had any dealings at all with him at all. I was $60,000 then, and I gave Grannan $3,000 of it. I never borrowed $5 from him since I've known him, although, as pretty nearly every one knows, I've been broke most of my life. Yet there's a popular impression that I've lived off Grannan."

"The trouble about me is that too often I've put all my eggs in one basket. All I had to do was to stay my toe, and then down went basket, eggs, and Sheely and all."

NEVER CHEAT YOURSELF.

"A man is justified sometimes in cheating others, but he's never justified in cheating himself. I never cheated Grannan. I'd be cheating myself. When I'm exceedingly friendly with a man I won't play with him at all. Smith and Grannan were pretty thick, but they weren't so much so that they wouldn't win each other's money. Between me and Grannan it was different."

"If I were playing cards with my own brother I'd win from him. I say that I had a chance to see the bottom card I'd see it, and so would you or any one else. When a gambler preaches honesty to you look out for your watch. If it were a crime to be in debt I'd be doing a fine sentence, but I never got so far broke as to rob a man like Grannan, when he'd have given me every dollar he had just for the asking."

"The little fellows around the Tenderloin who wear number six hats and twelve shoes and call themselves gamblers say we fleeced Grannan, Al Smith and me, but Grannan never said a word. If he said so it would be true. If Smith said so it would be true. They are both honorable men and the best-hearted fellows I ever met. Smith couldn't tell a lie if he tried."

"Now, I'll tell you the story of how Grannan came to lose $30,000 dealing snap faro without a limit. It was the greatest game in the history of gambling. At one time Grannan was $75,000 loser, and if Smith and me had been feeling him we'd have quit then and not waited until he had got almost out of the hole."

HOW THE GAME STARTED.

"It was last November, Grannan had won $80,000 down at Sheepshead Bay, and Smith was talking of his good luck. We were all three at the Gilsey House drinking. Smith allowed it was a shame he'd never had a chance to make $60,000. "Playing faro isn't like playing the races," said Smith. "On the track you put down your $100 and pull off $600, but at faro you spring the limit on you. If they'd run the faro game without a limit I'd be a millionaire."

"Come off," says Grannan. "you're talking through your hat."

"Now, see here," Smith says, getting hot, "what you don't know about faro would fill a library. What I say is that it isn't right that a fellow should have so many chances at racing and not any at faro. Now, take you. You're a man who knows all about horses, but nothing about cards. I don't know a thing about horses myself. I don't believe I know any more about horses than you do about cards. Yet you go and make $60,000 in one day and I don't get any show at all."

Smith kept grumbling on in this strain. We were all drinking pretty heavily. Then up jumps Grannan:

"See here," he says, "you say you'd be a millionaire if there wasn't any limit at faro. Well, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll run a game with you. I'll keep the bank, and there won't be any limit."

"You're smoking, says I, meaning that they acted doped. Just as if they'd been hitting the pipe."

"No, I'm not," said Grannan. "I've had a few drinks and so have all of us, but I'm as good as my word, and I'll bank that game. Smith says he's a sucker at the horses and I'm a sucker at faro, and I'll be blamed if I don't show you whether the last part of that's so."

Both men had their blood up, and we were all a little thick. We went round to a poker-room, 46 West Twenty-ninth street, that I had an interest in, and we rigged one out on a dining room table."

I kept telling them they were smoking and that some one was going to lose about $40,000, but they wouldn't listen. They were eager to begin. I wasn't going to be in the game. I had to sit and look on."

The only unlimited faro game I'd ever seen before then was at Morris Martin's, 109 Adams street, Chicago. Smith and I played there, Martin dealing without splits. We took $9,000 away from him and it broke him. That did one good thing, anyway—it drove Morris Martin out of the bar business."

THE PLUNGER NO CHEMP.

Now, Smith and Grannan went at that thing perfectly fair and square. Grannan isn't a sucker. Would you call a man a sucker who would make $30,000 at Sheepshead Bay?

People who saw Smith and Grannan and me in each other's company used to think we were doing wonderful things together. They would point Smith and me out as marvels, but Smith and I lost pretty nearly all the time, and often enough in those days, when I was admired as a millionaire, I didn't have enough money to buy my breakfast."

All the little door-mat stealers in the Tenderloin who say they live off gambling tell how Smith and I put this job up on Grannan. There wasn't any job. If I played with Grannan there wouldn't be any sentiment in it. I'm out for the stuff when I play. If there were to be any sympathy it would be after the game. Then I might hand a man his money back if I felt sorry for him, and then again I might not."

Now, what use would there be in me playing with Smith? He never had a dollar in his life that I had to ask him for. I can tell when he's broke just by looking at him, and he can tell when I'm broke just by looking at me. There doesn't have to be any talking. Then what I've got is Smith's, and what's Smith's is Sheely's."

There isn't any fascination in gambling for me. I'd rather be anything else than a gambler. I think I'd drive a street car if I knew how. But when I play with anyone I'm not handing any bouquets to myself that I won't win. I will win if I can."

Well, in that game there wasn't a dollar shown. Grannan began as banker, without any limit. After three deals they swapped places and Smith dealt, giving Grannan a limit of $300.

They started in betting $200 or $300 each. We weren't any of us too sober, and it seems like a dream now. Talk about hitting the pipe! It was the biggest faro game ever played. There isn't any doubt about that."

GRANNAN $75,000 IN THE HOLE.

At one time Grannan was $75,000 loser. Then Smith whup sawed putting $20,000 on the line to win, and on the five to lose. The nine lost and the five won, giving Smith a loss of $40,000. That left Grannan $35,000 loser up to 'hat point. That one play meant a difference to the men of $80,000.

I kept telling them they were making monkeys of themselves, and that they were smoking. They wouldn't listen to a word. They went on increasing the size of the bets until I thought they'd be playing for the City Hall presently. I threatened to chuck them out in the street, as I didn't know what would come of this thing."

Then, as a last resource, I decided to turn out the game. I ran upstairs to the meter, but the cock wasn't there and I couldn't work it. I knew that if I turned the gas out down-stairs they'd light it again, but with the gas stopped at the meter the game would end, for they'd be too drunk to find the meter anyway."

HOW THE GAME WAS STOPPED.

I just tore up a board from the floor and broke up two sticks. With these I made a little lever and turned the gas off. I heard a cry of rage on the floor below as the great American faro players found themselves in the dark."

I came down covered with dust and cobwebs, and found them laughing and swearing alternately. We bundled out into the street. Grannan, they said, had quit $30,000 loser."

When we walked up the street Grannan seemed perfectly delighted with himself. He kept saying, "My! Ain't I a bird!" I never saw a man more self-satisfied. He was morally certain he was a bird. There wasn't anything he didn't know."

They began to talk casino. I got tired and went home. Then the great American faro-players went somewhere and played eight games of casino for $1,000 a side. Smith lost all the games. That left Grannan a loser of $12,000 net. He wanted to play for $10,000 a game, but Smith wouldn't, which was unlucky for Smith, as eight games at $10,000 per game amounts to $80,000."

Grannan had big casino in every game. "I guess you've got your name on that card," said Smith, and he kept examining it for Grannan's monogram."

Next day Grannan said he'd like to buck up against Wall street. I told him those fellows would not only skin him, but grind up his bones and sell them for fertilizer, but he was temporarily stuck on himself, and he was bound to stick to Wall street. The things he was going to do to the Wall street brokers made my hair stand on end. Speculation was the stock to run on a different basis on the Stock Exchange after Grannan once got fairly started."

I took him down to Isidor Wormser, who is an old friend of mine, and introduced him. Grannan didn't want it known that he was up to all the ropes, and when Mr. Wormser asked him if he was a ball or a bear, he said he was a little of both."

So Grannan put up $20,000 on wheat on a margin of three points. He was pretty sure wheat was going up. Wormser told him to play the market the other way, but Grannan wasn't taking any tips."

"I guess if I've got $20,000 worth of wheat I'd better go short of sugar," said Grannan."

"You'll be short of sugar quick enough," said I.

"We'll see about that," replied Grannan. Then he turned to Wormser and said: "Sell $30,000 worth of sugar stock."

"Sugar's going up," says Wormser. "I've played wheat to win, and I'll back sugar for a place," replied Grannan. "And kindly do as I say. This Wall-street business is a great snarl."

LOST $30,000 IN WALL STREET.

Well, the upshot of it was that wheat went down and sugar went up, just as Wormser said they would. He got out of his sugar deal before he was wiped out, but he dropped $10,000 in the sugar bowl and $20,000 in the flour barrel, making $30,000 in all."

Now, I have told you Mr. Grannan quit losses of $40,000. He had the most fun at faro, and it came cheaper. But I wouldn't recommend a man to go in for the great Grannan game of unlimited faro too often. Once in a while doesn't matter so much."
